Dear Anne Bremner,

I write to you on behalf of the Dublin University Law Society. I wish to inform you of your nomination as a recipient of the Trinity Praeses Elit Award.

This award is founded by Mary Robinson, former President of Ireland. It is awarded to those who have advanced legal discourse, through excellence of advocacy and commitment to causes. Our focus is on encouraging students in their careers and promoting awareness of current legal and political issues amongst the student body. You are a great figure in the legal sphere internationally. There can be no doubt that you have had a profound influence on the lives of others and embody the work valued by the Law Society. Through your personal life and career you have proved to be a great inspiration through your constant battle to push and advance the minds and perspectives of others.

It is my great honour and personal pleasure to invite you to address the society and accept the Trinity Vice Presidency. The Vice President award is reserved for those who have made an extraordinary contribution to the legal, political and academic world, and is rarely bestowed. There can be no doubt that your views would be valued deeply by Trinity students as you are an outstanding example to those who aspire within the same field. This award represents our deep appreciation of your work and the profound influence you have had on the US legal system. It would be a great privilege for the society if you were to come to Trinity University to accept the award and make an address.

Trinity is a college steeped in history and fosters an environment where by the greatest minds are invited to nurture a love of knowledge. We at Trinity College have welcomed many international patrons such as Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Archbishop Desmond Tutu, Dame Helen Mirren, Naomi Campbell, Winston Churchill, Senator John McCain, FW de Klerk, Justice Antonin Scalia, Al Pacino, Nancy Pelosi and Gordon Brown who have thoroughly enjoyed their stay in Ireland. The college is privileged to call itself the alma mater of George Berkeley, Jonathan Swift, Oliver Goldsmith, Bram Stoker, Oscar Wilde, John B. Yeats, Mary Robinson, and Nobel Laureates E.T.S. Walton and Samuel Becket

We are certainly aware of your busy schedule but should you find the time, we will go to all lengths to ensure that you have a pleasurable and memorable experience. We are, of course, more than happy to host you at your convenience; the session runs from late September to March. Naturally, the society will provide for travel, dining, security, hotel and any other cost you feel may be necessary. If you require any information I would be delighted to discuss this further with you, please do not hesitate to contact me by email as indicated above.

We would be honoured if you would accept this award.

Cura ut valeas,

Ruth Keating
